Consumers and Employers Give High Marks Too

I got the answers to the questions I had very quickly. The representative I spoke to was very professional and helpful. Additionally, I didn't have to wait on hold at all.

The Claims support staff at American Benefits Group are not only extremely knowledgeable, but know how to deliver great customer service.

I needed new flex spending cards. I emailed our client rep and got a near immediate response that the cards were ordered. It's nice that AMBEN still believes in giving personal service.

I have worked with American Benefits Group for about 10 years, and they have provided excellent service. They are one of the only service providers that has remained a constant in our Benefits department over the years, and it is because of their excellent customer service. It often feels like we are their only client because of the dedicated service that they provide. I fully endorse them and would recommend them to any employer.

Vencore - Senior Benefits Manager

Overall I can only rate their service as excellent requiring very little maintenance and I would highly recommend it for implementation by other companies.

I would not hesitate to recommend them to any employer.

Nondiscrimination Testing

In order to qualify for tax-favored status, a benefit plan must not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees (HCEs) and key employees with respect to eligibility, contributions, or benefits. The Federal government has established regulations that specify requirements for each type of benefit plan governed by IRC Section 125, IRC Section 105, and IRC Section 129.

In order to evidence compliance annual tests must be performed and the results documented for each benefit plan. The results are subject to audit by the IRS.

American Benefits Group offers a comprehensive process for executing nondiscrimination testing. The NDX self-service portal is available to all our clients. Clients are able to run two tests per year, the cost is included in the annual admin fee.

American Benefits Group offers a comprehensive process for executing nondiscrimination testing.

Flexible Spending Accounts

Employer sponsored Flexible Spending Accounts (FSAs) allow employees to set aside a portion of their earnings on a pre-tax basis to pay for qualified medical and/or dependent care expenses.

Health Flexible Spending Account

The most common type of FSA is used to pay for medical expenses not covered by insurance; this usually means deductibles, copayments, and coinsurance for the employee's health plan, but may also include other expenses not covered by the health plan such as dental and vision expenses.

A Health FSA cannot pay for health insurance premiums, cosmetic items, controlled substances, or items that improve "general health". All items must be intended to treat or prevent a specific medical condition; this can be as significant as diabetes or pregnancy, or as trivial as skin cuts. Generally items are the same as those allowable for the medical tax deduction, as outlined in IRS publication 502.

Limited Purpose FSA (LPF)

Reimbursements are limited to Vision and Dental Expenses, making participation in this account compatible with contributing to a Health Savings Account (HSA).

If an employer allows it under their LPF plan design, employees who anticipate having large deductible expenses can use their LPF as a "Post Deductible FSA" once they have met the minimum out-of-pocket deductible expense as required by the IRS.

Dependent Care Account (DCA)

FSAs can also be established to pay for certain expenses to care for dependents that live with participants while they are at work. While this most commonly means child care for dependent children through age 12, it can also be used for adult day care for live-in adult dependents.

Premium Conversion or Premium Only Plans (POP)

Employee contributions for any employer provided group health and dental insurance can be paid with Pre-Tax dollars.

Plan Document

Flexible Spending Accounts are a component of a Cafeteria Plan under Section 125 of the IRS regulations. American Benefits Group supplies our employer clients with the appropriate plan documents to govern their plans.

We also provide annual nondiscrimination testing to be sure your plans are in compliance.

ABG Claims Connect is a service offered by American Benefits Group which allows employees to link their insurance carrier accounts to the WealthCare system.

Once insurance carrier accounts are linked, all insurance carrier Explanation of Benefits (EOBs) for that employee will download into our system and any expense they are required to pay will become available for reimbursement and / or debit card substantiation.

This solution is ideal for HRA which use the debit card for RX expenses only.

Flexible Spending Accounts provide real savings for both the employer and employee.

Health Reimbursement Arrangements

If you're like most employers, one of your primary concerns is the high cost of medical insurance. While you want to provide your employees comprehensive protection, it needs to be affordable. Health Reimbursement Arrangements provide a strategy that enables you to achieve that goal and still provide comprehensive coverage.

An HRA, paired with a high-deductible health plan, allows you to reduce your fixed health insurance premium and only fund HRA expenses as they occur.

General Rules Relating to an HRA

- HRAs are both owned and funded by the employer.
- The employer determines how much to contribute and what expenses are eligible for reimbursement within the IRS guidelines.
- The employer can choose to allow unused funds to roll over from one plan year to the next.
- HRAs are usually integrated with a high-deductible health plan (HDHP), but can be paired with any type of health plan.
- All employer contributions to the plan are 100% tax deductible to the employer, and tax-free to the employee.
- Employers may fund HRAs with annual lump sums or periodically throughout the year and restrict reimbursements to current account balances.

Examples of HRA Plan Designs

HRA plan designs are virtually limitless, below are examples of frequently used plan designs. These examples are based on pairing an HRA with a High Deductible Health Plan that has a $2,000 deductible with 100% coinsurance.

Design 1 – Employer Pays First

- Employer reimburses first $1,000 from HRA.
- Employee pays the next $1,000.
- Health plan pays remaining covered benefits.
- Benefits: Provides first-dollar coverage for employees. Can help assure a smooth transition to a high deductible plan.

Design 2 – Employee Pays First

- Employee pays first $1,000 of deductible.
- Employer reimburses next $1,000 from HRA .
- Health plan pays remaining covered benefits.
- Benefits: Employer saves the most money. Encourages informed and responsible use of health care services.

Design 3 – Split Deductible

- Employer and employee split the deductible costs.
- Health plan pays remaining covered benefits.
- Benefit: Offers a “middle ground” plan in which expenses are shared from the outset.

Design 4 – Divided Deductible

- Employee pays first $500 of deductible.
- Employer reimburses next $1,000 from HRA.
- Employee pays next $500 of deductible.
- Health plan pays remaining covered benefits.
- Benefit: Employee deductible is divided in two. The initial employee portion can mirror the group's current plan deductible.

Commuter Plans
